Addressing Workplace Violence, Building Safer Workplaces & Supporting Our Frontline Providers

Across the region and country, healthcare staff are facing increasing and alarming incidents of workplace violence and incivility. Nurse leaders at all levels identify workplace violence as a top challenge and top priority.

Join us at ONL's Spring Quarterly Meeting on March 10th, held virtually via Zoom, to dive deeper into this critical topic and explore strategies for addressing workplace violence from multiple perspectives.

The program agenda is designed to promote interaction, open discussion, and the sharing of information, so all attendees will leave with new ideas about how to address workplace violence, create safer workplaces, and support their team members.

WHAT PARTICIPANTS CAN EXPECT

- Develop a broader understanding of national and regional efforts to address workplace violence by AONL, AHA, and organizations in New England
- Gain strategies, insight, and resources for addressing and preventing workplace violence that can be implemented at your organization
- Connect, collaborate, and share ideas with fellow nurse leaders who share a commitment to addressing workplace violence, creating safer workplaces, and supporting their team members
