KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Peter Buerhaus
PhD, RN, FAAN, FAANP(h)

Professor of Nursing & Director, Center for Interdisciplinary Health Workforce Studies,
Montana State University

Creating the 21st Century Workforce: Building on Our Strengths to Address "Post-Pandemic" Health Needs

Meeting society's health needs in the "post-pandemic" world will require building on our strengths to create a 21st century workforce. Nurse economist and nursing workforce expert Dr. Peter Buerhaus will share his perspective on the strengths of the nursing workforce that needs to be leveraged in the "post-pandemic" period. He will then discuss the immediate economic impacts of COVID on the nursing workforce and the longer term implications for the future size of the workforce through 2030. Peter will then provide an overview of the challenges facing nurses, educators, and organizational leaders will face and offer ideas on how to embrace value-based payments as a way the challenges can be overcome.

Join us for this special presentation and to celebrate Dr. Buerhaus before he retires!
