Leading, Learning, Making a Difference

FALL 2024

Leadership Lunch Series

Ideas, Insights & Inspiration for Nursing Teams

During this interactive, live educational series, nurses, nurse leaders, and teams learn and gain inspiration from nationally recognized thought leaders for 90 minutes each month while enjoying their lunch. Our speakers share diverse perspectives ranging from big-picture thinking to tactical, actionable strategies, offering something for everyone at all levels of leadership. The program is a way for organizations to provide timely, consistent educational content to their teams that encourages discussion and dialogue while supporting team bonding, collaboration, and ideas to advance practice. Participants at all levels rave about this series!

Friday, Sept. 20th, 12:00-1:30 PM,

Vincent Guilamo-Ramos, PHD, MSN, MPH, MS, MSW, BS, RN, ANP-BC, LCSW, PMHNP-BC, FAAN

Effective Strategies for Nurse-Driven Elimination of Health Inequities

The need for a paradigm shift toward whole-person and contextualized care that addresses structural challenges and advances health equity is increasingly being recognized. This session will share strategies and exemplars for nurse-led transformation of systems that deliver care and impact health. Dr. Guilamo-Ramos will offer strategies for nurse leaders to support practice transformation, workforce development, and evidence generation across care settings to prioritize health and well-being for all.

Friday, Oct. 18th, 12:00-1:30 PM, Penelope Gorsuch, DNP, RN, NEA-BC, EBP-C, FACHE, USAF Col (retired)

The Center for Clinical Inquiry™: An Innovative Collaborative Model to Promote and Support Change

Change is ever-present in every healthcare organization, however, current organizational structures are not built for agility. How nursing departments approach clinical inquiry can make all the difference. This session will describe a systematic, data-driven model for implementing and sustaining best practices and processes to improve patient, clinician, and organizational outcomes.

Friday, Nov. 15th, 12:00-1:30 PM, Elizabeth Schenk, PhD, MHI, RN, FAAN

Nursing Practice, Health, and Our Planet

Climate change is recognized by the World Health Organization as “the single biggest health threat facing humanity.” Nurses have a vital role in addressing this global issue and its consequences on health and our planet in their capacity as advocates for the health and safety of individuals and communities. This session will explore the relationships between health care and planetary health, examine contributors to healthcare pollution, and discuss nursing roles in reducing healthcare pollution.

Friday, Dec. 20th, 12:00-1:30 PM, Barbara Mackoff, Ed.D

Mindsets: Thinking About How You Think

How we show up for our work and our team can significantly impact our professional success, job satisfaction, and well-being. During this interactive session, Dr. Barbara Mackoff will use case studies and group discussion to unpack eight critical mindsets for leaders. She will discuss strategies that promote awareness, deepen thinking, and lead to better results.
