

Nurse Leader Master Class

For nurse leaders already established in a leadership role

Leadership is a journey. The Nurse Leader Master Class (NLMC) is ONL's signature leadership development program designed especially for nurse leaders already established in a leadership role. This three-day, virtual program offers rich, interactive, cohort-based professional learning. The program features a balance of content and facilitated discussions designed to help established nurse leaders reenergize, refocus, and renew their leadership practice while also building connections with a peer network across organizational boundaries.

SESSION 1

Leading Yourself: Managing Time in Light of Mission

Tuesday, March 5th, 2024, 9:00 AM - 3:00 PM ET, via Zoom

Session 1, led by Dr. Barbara Mackoff, focuses on each individual as a leader. Key components of leadership are discussed, including motivation, personal mission, self care and trust. This interactive and reflective session equips leaders with new insights for aligning personal values with organizational mission, addressing trust among colleagues and teams, and tapping into the grit and fortitude needed to meet the current moment in nursing.

Advancing Diversity and Inclusivity

Tuesday, March 26th, 2024, 9:00 AM - 3:00 PM ET, via Zoom

Creating inclusive work environments, caring for racist patients, and addressing bias are central to nursing leadership roles. Led by Dr. Leah Gordon and Dr. Marie Borgella, Session 2 explores the impact of racism in health care and in nursing and equips leaders with the knowledge and skills needed to reduce bias and advance inclusivity.

Coaching through Change

Tuesday, April 2nd, 2024, 9:00 AM - 3:00 PM ET, via Zoom

In the final session, Deb Gerardi guides nurse leaders to deepen their connection to self, their values, and their unique perspective. Participants will learn how to use a coaching approach to move through disorienting dilemmas, lean into conflict and crucial conversations, and expand their ability to step into uncertain and chaotic situations.
