

Nursing Leadership in the New World of Work

Strategies and tools for success at every level of leadership

Thursday, March 6, 2025 · 9:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. via Zoom

The turbulence of the last four years has impacted healthcare delivery systems and the nursing workforce. Nursing leaders are working tirelessly to pick up the pieces and navigate the new world of work.

In this workshop, Dr. Rose Sherman will share what nurse leaders need to do differently to effectively lead in this new world of work with actionable strategies and tools that can be put into practice immediately. Participants will learn how to become a more effective communicator, restore trust, promote professional accountability, encourage engagement, and build a culture of well-being on their nursing teams.

This interactive virtual workshop will cover:

- The new world of work and workforce expectations
- Strategies health systems are using to manage workforce shortages
- How to find your leadership voice and communicate more effectively
- The impact of generational changes on ideas about professional accountability and the role of work in life
- Ways to build and strengthen a culture of well-being and resilience for leaders and staff

Rose Sherman, Ed.D, RN, NEA-BC, FAAN
Nursing Leadership Development Expert & Author

Dr. Rose Sherman is nationally known for helping current and future nursing leaders develop leadership and coaching skills. Rose is an emeritus professor at the Christine E.
